Some person who apparently had a grudge against either J. R. Tierney or Angelo Scamporrino threw a large granite chip through the window of the former's wine store in the Scamporrino block some time yesterday morning. The window broken is the one in the side and the stone, with which the deed was done, was found inside and was a clean granite chip, apparently not picked up in the street but brought from a shed for the purpose for which it was used. Lathrop (Hamel) says that the window was not broken at three o'clock yesterday morning.
